Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 21-29, 41-44 and 57-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Rogers. Rogers teaches a device in the form of a plurality of burners (12) for use in a vertical shaft furnace (2) which are configured to direct a jet of hot gas into the shaft in an upper portion in a non-radial direction (see the orientation of the burners 12 in figure 2 for example) where the burners extend in a common direction circumferentially around the inside of the shaft where the apparatus is inclined downwardly from the horizontal plane, thereby inducing a swirl, and the burners can be configured to fire at a different and if desired a lower heat input than the lower burners (18) where both the upper and lower burners can be either pre-mix or nozzle mix burners as desired, thereby showing all aspects of the above claims.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 30-32 and 62-64 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. The above claims would be allowable over the cited and applied prior art at least because none of the cited or applied prior art shows or fairly suggests that use of a connecting plenum between the burner and the shaft so that the plenum introduces multiple jets into the shaft. The closest applied prior art (Rogers) rather, employs multiple burners (12) arranged around the shaft each with a plenum, and no single plenum which is configured to direct multiple jets from a single burner as instantly claimed.

Conclusion

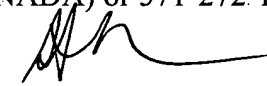

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Each of Geiger et al and Poumay are also cited as further examples of prior art vertical shaft furnaces including both upper and lower burner systems.
